Take Care

These shoes are made with over 30 years of experience in footwear manufacturing, using high-quality materials and excellent Spanish craftsmanship.

Any minor imperfections, slight nuances and variations in color are typical characteristics that identify the leather product as natural. We recommend avoiding contact with water and grease. There may be a slight release of color on contact with other, light-colored, items of clothing or details. The product should be stored in its original packaging away from light and heat. Materials used for these shoes are processed according to the European directives.

Leather-soled shoes as well as heel tips will eventually need to be re-soled and replaced, depending on the conditions in which you wear them. We strongly recommend you to consult a professional in leather care or a shoe mender for a specific care advice.
